NO NEW WORK ON ROADS IN BURLEIGH CO.

Commissioners Order Discontinuance Because of Cash Basis Law, Statement

WILL SELL BONDS

To Put County on Cash Basis—Farm Land Values in County are Lowered

No new road work will be done henceforth in Burleigh county this year, it was decided by the board of county commissioners, in a meeting late yesterday. The action was taken, it was said, because of the new state law effective July 1, putting counties, cities and other subdivisions on a cash basis, and prohibiting issuance of warrants without funds to back them up.

The road maintenance work, consisting of dragging on the Heg Trail, Bismarck-Wilton road, Sterling to Burleigh county line road and Lignite trail from Wilton east, will be continued, there being money for this purpose.

One road contract is advertised for letting on August 7. It is a stretch of grade about two miles south of the Red Trail and about six miles east of Bismarck. A concrete bridge is about completed across a coulee. Under an arrangement the township is to pay for the road, the county to do the work.

Advertise Bonds.
The commissioners decided to advertise for bids for bonds, bids to be received on August 3. The county will offer $300,000 worth of 5-year general fund bonds and $100,000 10-year road and fund bonds. They are to be issued under the new cash basis law, which provides for five or ten year bond issues, and also for issuance of certificates of indebtedness. The $100,000 would be used to retire warrants. The county's bond issue now is but $45,000.

The commissioners adopted a resolution, general in nature and specifying no names, for appearance of numerous corporations and individuals on July 26 to answer why they should not be assessed for property which has escaped taxation in the past. The action was taken, it is understood, on the report of F. O. Hellstrom, employed for this work.

Low Farm Values.
County Auditor Johnson read to the board a letter from H. Taylor, chief of the U. S. Engineers, stating that $25,000 had been made available for reversion work on the Missouri river above the Northern Pacific railroad bridge, to be expended with sums appropriated by the Northern Pacific and the U. S. Bureau of Roads.

The commissioners considered equalization matters, but have not completed the equalization. It was stated by the county auditor that the average assessed value of farm land in the county will be placed at between $13 and $14 an acre this year as compared to $15.40 an acre last year.

Sheriff Albin Medstrom, after conference with other county officials, has taken steps to collect taxes owed by the Bismarck Water Supply Company, precautionary measures being taken because of the sale of the property to the city of Bismarck.

The levy made on the property is for a total of about $33,764.45, as follows: 1921 taxes, $9,570.33, interest $2,009.70; 1922 taxes, $10,822.55; interest $2,741.01; 1923 taxes, $10,662.86 (estimate).

The 1923 tax amount is entirely an estimate by county officials.

Attorneys for the water company have taken up the matter.

STYLES NAMED STATE ACTUARY

Assumes Place in the State Insurance Department

Wesley Styles, formerly connected with Fargo and Twin City insurance companies, has been named actuary for the state insurance department, under a law effective July 1, S. A. Olness, commissioner of insurance, announced today. Employment of an actuary had been recommended to many sessions of the legislature and especially urged by former Commissioner W. C. Taylor, but it was not until the 1923 session that a $3,000 annual appropriation was made for this work, Commissioner Olness said.

Mr. Styles' first duty will be to examine policy forms of companies doing business in the state with a view of determining if they are actually sound. He will examine domestic insurance companies. The state also will be able to reciprocate with other states in the matter of examination. Mr. Styles, a native of Grand Forks, formerly was with the Northwestern Fire Mutual of Fargo, and the Pioneer Life company of that city, he said, and recently has been with the insurance and jobbing agencies in the Twin Cities. He was formerly in the South Dakota insurance department. His brother is a former law partner of Theodore Koffer of Bismarck, while the latter was in Bennington, Minn., where the position of chief clerk in the office, held by Jacob Barth, was abolished.

ESTIMATES ON WHEAT ARE CUT

Seasonal Reductions Because of

Usual Reductions Because of Seasonal Setbacks are Made

Wheat prospects in North Dakota as a result principally of drought and heat during the first 17 days of June were cut 10.9 million bushels, while oats forecast shows a decline of 6.4 million, barley 3.5 million and winter rye 3.6 million bushels in the July 1 estimates of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics, announced today, which now give wheat 71,147,000 bushels compared with 122,234,000 in 1922; oats 53,073,000 compared with 76,804,000 last year; barley 22,157,000 compared with 25,704,000 last year and winter rye 10,125,000 compared with 24,503,000 last year. Corn and flax according to the report are the only major crops having a July condition above average, corn also showing a 6 percent increase in acreage and promising 18,818,000 bushels compared with 18,700,000 in 1922, while flax with an acreage of 1,207,000 or 11 percent increase over last year has a forecasted production of 8,207,000 bushels against 5,460,000 in 1922.

The report gives potato acreage a reduction of 25 per cent with a production forecast of 12,351 bushels compared with 17,802,000 last year. Hay crops and pastures also suffered with grain crops in June heat and drought, it is shown, was more damaging in counties making up the west central, central and north central districts.

ACCOUNTANT COMPLETES JOB

C. A. L. Anderson, accountant for Bishop, Brissman and Company, left the city yesterday after spending several weeks here installing accounting systems for the collection department of the Bank of North Dakota and the Guaranty Fund Commission. Mr. Anderson returned to Fargo, and from there will go to a camp on the St. Croix river, near St. Paul, for a vacation.

Danish Shipbuilders Report
Copenhagen, July 12.—Danish shipbuilding yards seem to have safely weathered the post-war trade depression and are entering upon a period of comparative prosperity, says the Scandinavian Shipping Gazette.

The yards have come through the crisis very well, principally owing to the consolidation policy which has been followed. With the placing of new orders, the yards are able to work more or less independently again. They are all busy, and a few of them are booked up. The employment has benefited accordingly.

The yard workers, earlier in the year, voluntarily agreed to reduce their wages in order to make it possible for the yard shipbuilders to bid low.

STORM BRINGS HARDSHIPS TO MANY FARMERS

Particularly Serious to Them Coming, as it Does, on Eve of the Harvest

FREAKS OF THE STORM

Traveler in Bismarck Tells of Hard Coal Burner Carried By the Wind

The cyclone which struck heaviest in southern Sheridan and Wells counties Sunday has caused severe hardship to many farmers in the devastated area, according to M. F. Daugherty, one of those who suffered loss in the storm, in Bismarck today at the Van Horn Hotel. In places all buildings on farms were wrecked and chickens and other livestock killed and machinery wrecked, he said. Coming as it does, on the eve of harvest, it is doubly hard on many farmers.

Queer actions of the twister are reported by Mr. Daugherty. The wind picked up a church-school of the Seventh Day Adventists four miles south of Denhoff, carried it 60 rods and set it down without damaging it in the least, he said. Mr. Daugherty's house was wrecked, but he was not at home. The wind split the house and scattered it so that he was able to find only a few pieces of it. A coal burner in the house was found almost a half a mile away from where the house had been.

Shipwrecked on Denhoff.
Payson, farmer and contractor, lives nine miles south of Denhoff, was completely destroyed. The barn cost $4,000. A number of horses were driven into the flesh of some of the horses, who ran wild about the barnlot. Nine horses were killed. Mr. Payson's loss was estimated at $8,000, with but $2,000 tornado insurance. He was at St. Mary, Montana, for the Fourth of July and did not return until after the storm.

Mr. Daugherty's home was two miles from the home of Carl Fandrick, seven miles south of Denhoff, where Mrs. Fandrick was killed. She was driving chickens into a small chicken house, he said, when the wind literally buried her under the timbers of the wrecked chicken house. When a search was instituted for her it was not suspected that she had been buried under the chicken house and she was found only because a small boy saw one hand sticking out from under the timbers.

The storm was exceptionally heavy about 10 miles south of Denhoff, he said. No damage was seen by him from a point six miles north of Wing, Burleigh county.

W. E. Nichols, in the northern part of the county, suffered a heavy loss. He informed friends he had nothing but an automobile and part of his house was left. The family, including three small children, escaped death by what Mr. Nichols termed a miracle.

An insurance adjuster reported that in adjusting the loss on one barn, he found two by four timbers twisted like ropes but windows in the barn unharmed.

WATER WORKS COST SET AT $640,000.00

Final Figures in Construction Work Now Under Way May Vary Some

Cost of the city water works when completed, including the plant of the Bismarck water supply company, will be about $640,000, according to figures given out today by T. R. Atkinson, city engineer. Because of the changes which were necessary in view of the purchase of the present water works system, the exact cost has been difficult to ascertain.

The total cost, based on original plans and including the purchase price of the water plant, is figured at $665,000, but this probably will be reduced $25,000 through changing of the 16-inch main to Avenue C from Broadway and other changes. The cost, based on original plans, is figured as follows: purchase price, $285,000; contract No. 1, purchase of cast iron pipe, etc., $125,000; contract No. 2, laying main, $81,000; contract No. 3, filtration plant building, $140,000; contract No. 4, heating plant for filtration plant building, $5,500; contract No. 5, equipment for filtration plant, $24,388.00; contract No. 6, pumping engines, other equipment $34,985.00.

Each contract may vary somewhat in the final analysis, it is stated. Pumping equipment and some other items in the present water works are discarded in the new system.

WHEAT, FLOUR BOTH FALL

Flour Sells at $6.00 for First Time in Years

Chicago, July 12.—Wheat and flour are at the lowest levels since the World War.

For the first time since 1914 wheat sold for less than $1.00 a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, and at the same time Minneapolis millers cut the price of family patent flour in carload lots to $9.00 a barrel, the lowest since 1915.

Brokers gave over-production the world over and a general readjustment of grain values toward pre-war conditions as fundamental causes for the depression. The drop was further accelerated by more optimistic reports from the Northwest where it has been reported wheat was being damaged by rust.

Authorities generally said that $1.00 wheat would not permit the farmer his production cost and Gilbert Duesler, market statistician for the American Farm Bureau, said that if September and December wheat sold as low as 95 cents it would mean a loss of $80,000,000 to the American farmer.

Veteran Found Dazed on Street

Fargo, July 12.—E. B. Rothrick, veteran of two wars and formerly an instructor in the University of Minnesota and other schools of that state was found in a partially paralyzed condition lying at the side of the street at Thirteenth and Fifteenth at 8:20 a. m. yesterday. He had been out all night tottering about unable to control his actions. Although his clothes were in poor condition he had more than $100 in his pockets.

Rothrick, who is 69 years old, claims to have been a lieutenant in the army during the World war and to have served overseas and in the trenches. He was wounded in the leg and suffered from exposure and hardships during his service because of his advanced age, he says. Rothrick served during the Spanish-American war, according to his story, and was in Cuba, Haiti, and the Philippines.

INJUNCTION IN RAILROAD CASE IS PERMANENT

Federal Judge Wilkerson Signs Famous Daugherty Injunction Papers

MAKES STATEMENT

Incredible, He Says, that "Warfare" of Kind Should Exist in America

Chicago, July 12.—A final decree making permanent the temporary injunction obtained by the United States government in federal court here October 5, 1922 against the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor, its officers and others, restraining them from interfering in any manner, shape or form in the operation of railroads during the nation-wide shopmen's strike, was entered today by Judge James H. Wilkerson of the United States district court.

The decree making permanent the injunction, which is considered the most wide-spread restraining order ever obtained in the history of litigation, affects approximately 400,000 railway employees and officers of the shopmen's strike, concerned in the strike. The injunction was applied for by United States Attorney General Henry M. Daugherty on September 1, 1922, nearly two months after the inception of the strike.

Theoretically the strike still is in effect. The shopmen left their posts of duty on July 1, 1922 when the U. S. Railroad Labor Board made a cut in their wages, effective that date. The strike continued for more than two months.

The men returned to work in September on the basis of what was known as the Baltimore agreement, which was entered into by 31 major railroads of the country. The agreement left the question of seniority, which has been the main bone of contention after the strike had extended into a month, to a commission to decide.

In making the injunction permanent Judge Wilkerson said in part: "It seems almost incredible that the warfare of the kind described in the voluminous record in this case should be in this country. It is more ominous that this unlawful assault upon the commerce of the nation should have found advocates and defenders (including many who happily, however) of these charged with the duty of protecting property and enforcing the law."

"This strike was more than a controversy between employer and employee. Its manifest purpose as shown by the evidence was to cripple and destroy interstate commerce and to create by this assault public opinion hostile to the decision of the board. The primary purpose of the combination is, therefore, illegal and it may not be carried out by means that otherwise would be legal."

G. N. GUARDIS ACQUITTED

Held Not Guilty in Shooting of Striking Railroad Man

Grand Forks, July 12.—A verdict of not guilty was returned today by the jury in the case of Thomas Guardis, Great Northern guard, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon in connection with the shooting of Adolph Furpur, striking shopman on September 3 last.

The verdict was returned 18 hours after the case had been given to the jury. In the trial Guardis admitted the shooting but claimed it was in self-defense, as he had been attacked by Furpur and two other strikers.

The third was 17-1/2 miles east of Dawson where an unknown man driving at terrific speed, was badly injured in an accident. The car struck a bump on the road, apparently, crashed through the air and turned turtle. Another car was in the ditch two miles this side of Menoken.

These losses are the first to be reported to the department.

Takes Oath of Alaskan Society Not to Mistreat Either Dog or Horse

Aboard U. S. S. Henderson with President Harding, July 12.—President Harding has bound himself by an oath never to mistreat either a dog or a horse.

The obligation to be kind to both the animals was part of an oath given by the President yesterday at Sitka, Alaska, when he became a member of the Arctic Brotherhood. Today he confirmed the oath in part to Mrs. Harding who in turn informed members of the Presidential party. The chief executive from boyhood has loved animals and his enthusiasm over the brotherhood's effort to protect them caused him to tell his wife about it.

The brotherhood was organized in 1899 by gold prospectors. The President was today on the open waters of the Pacific ocean, having passed through the straits of the Cross Sound into the Gulf of Alaska en route to Sitka, where he was to arrive at noon.

The reply will be submitted to the allies with the least possible delay in the hope that they will accede to its terms.

Mr. Baldwin failed to state what the British proposals will mean in the note the government intends framing, nor did he say anything in regard to an international commission to examine into Germany's capacity to pay.

Replying to questions by Ramsay MacDonald, the minority leader, Baldwin said the reply to Germany would be proceeded with forthwith. He said tomorrow he would report whether the reply was being communicated.

Commander Kenworthy, liberal member for Hull, asked whether the government had approached or had been approached by the United States in the matter of reparations. Mr. Baldwin's reply was described by reports as inaudible, but belief was expressed by those near him that he had said "no."

RUM RUNNING BIG INDUSTRY

Flourishes Along South Atlantic Coast, Says Chicago Paper

Chicago, July 12.—Rum running along the Florida coast has developed into such a flourishing industry that some Florida auto dealers sell cars specially built to transport liquor, furnish a negro chauffeur and guarantee safe delivery anywhere, the Chicago Daily News declared today in the second of series of copyrighted articles describing rum running along the Atlantic seaboard.

The writer who with a bootlegger named Terry investigated rum running along the Florida coast declared he had been approached by such an auto dealer who believed the newspaperman to be a bootlegger and described transportation methods, particularly the negro driver.

"The secret is this," the article quoted the dealer as saying, "if you buy a car from me I will supply a negro chauffeur who will drive you through in style for $10 and his expenses. Most of the northern rum runners who try to take booze through from Florida make the mistake of driving the car themselves. They are a hard lot, they wear caps and sweaters, they don't shave, some chew tobacco, they talk with their 'R's' spread all through their conversation. A southern cop can spot them as far as he can see them. If you take one of my sedans and one of my chauffeurs and simply loll back all dressed up in the back seat and let my chauffeur do your lying for you, I positively guarantee that you will get by."

Bank References Given
The dealers, the writer said, offered bank references and other proof of their reliability and integrity.

Further in reference to automobile dealers selling special bootlegging cars, the writer quotes one dealer as promising to follow through on the deal by introducing the prospective rum runner to prominent northern business connections at the other end.

"I give you my word of honor, sir," the writer quotes the dealer, "I'll write you an introduction to the sales manager of our cars on Michigan avenue, Chicago, who will take you to the president of the bank with which he does business, and they will assure you that we are gentlemen of integrity. If I send you out of Florida with a cargo of whisky in one of our cars every facility at our command will be at your service to assure your safe arrival."

World's Speediest Train Averages 61 Miles an Hour

London, July 12.—The fastest train in the world is now running between London and Swindon, a distance of 77 1/2 miles, which it covers in 75 minutes, traveling at the rate of 61.8 miles an hour.

This is one of five trains announced in the summer schedules of the English railroads, that will make better than a mile a minute on regular runs. The longest run is between London and Bath, 106 1/2 miles, which is made at the rate of 61.1 miles an hour.

Another feature of the summer train schedules is that daily non-stop trains are run between London and all the important cities and summer resorts in England, which are designed to allow the worker to live at the seaside and continue to work in London.

BISMARCK TOYS BRING JOY IN FAR-OFF SYRIA

Jackie Zuger Receives Letter
Voicing Appreciation of
Boys in the Near East

CONDITIONS DESCRIBED

Toys sent from Bismarck are gladdening hearts of homeless waifs in far-off Syria being given a few of the joys that are the right of childhood by American Relief Workers. A picturesque story of the dire straits of people in the Near East is related by Mrs. Alma Kerr, Near East Relief worker, formerly of Bismarck, in a letter to Mrs. Alfred Zuger and son, Jackie, thanking them for gifts to the orphans.

"I used the letters and books in the kindergarten. I never knew what a lot of joy those things could bring the little ones. I gave one marble to each of the little ones in the hospital and they just beamed and kissed them," said Mrs. Kerr, writing from Beirut, Syria, where she is in charge of relief work.

Mrs. Kerr visited with friends in Bismarck early this spring and took with her a box of toys and clothing packed by Mrs. Zuger for the orphans of the East. Mrs. Kerr had been in Syria for three years prior to her return to this country last year.

Little Boy Writes

Something of the appreciation felt by the little folks for the gifts sent from America is indicated in the following letter Victor Muckle, orphan in a hospital maintained by the American Near East Relief at Beirut, Syria, wrote Jackie.

"With thanks I send this letter to you telling you that I have received the suit which you have sent me by Mrs. Kerr. I am very glad to thank you for the gift and to send you my best wishes and I ask God to bless you and reward you for your good done."

Tells of Conditions

The following delightful description of Beirut and Athens, the only two points at which Mrs. Kerr stopped on her way East, is contained in her letter to Mrs. Zuger.

"I have been to the east, but that possibly can be explained since it was the first eastern city I'd seen in a year. The city is most picturesque with its white houses and mosques, located on the shores of a very blue bay and dotted with palm trees and gardens through the city. When the French bombarded the city, they entered at night and could scarcely distinguish even the outline of the buildings on shore. They had been ordered to fire at dawn but when the men awakened they were spellbound to find a snow white city, too beautiful to describe, some said. Since then it has been La Belle Ville Blanche, or snow white Athens. A friend of ours, a French doctor took us around the city, by automobile. We drove out to the botanical garden and had to look at the slow moving, white clad Moslems, who always move along as though they have time to burn. The Moslems or Arabs here are much larger than any I have seen before—and so handsome!"

The "Shell" Falls

"It was a very good thing for each of us five relief workers, that the ship stopped only one day in the harbor or I might have gone off on the Sahara with one. When we were taking our lunch at a shop, four negro Arabs came in, and seated themselves opposite us. They were wrapped in their snow white abbas a hood sort of affair that goes over their shoulders. One of them, an older man attracted my attention. We carried on quite a conversation on—however, and when we arose to go, he was careful to push back the folds of his abbas and I saw the red ribbon, Legion honor decoration which would have given me grounds for talking to him had we not been in such a hurry."

"We took a car after lunch and drove up to the old quarter on the top of the hills which is called Kasbah quarter. Kasbah is a Turkish word meaning amber and it may have been in ancient days a head market or factory. The cemetery is the most picturesque of all with the pine trees and the hundreds of crude headstones, the women and old men huddled over the graves, some chanting as their bodies swung to a peculiar rhythmic motion. They eyed us suspiciously as usual. We went through the leather markets, for which Algiers is very noted, got back on ship board at 4 o'clock and set sail. It was beautiful during the entire evening as we voyaged along the African coast and the sunset was almost a deep orange with glints of green."

Extremes in Greece

"Athens has two extremes—refugees from Anatolia, ragged, vermin infested and—scarcely able to stagger about—and—fashionable, well clad Athenians in Parisian garments promenading between the sunset and dusk to the music of the many orchestras or bands about in the gardens. I do not like Athens—never did, but they say those who have lived there long enough do. It looks far more dowdy than in 1919. Most of the men use crutches and limp—the effects of war and suffering being evident."

"We drove first to the Royal Palace which is now our headquarters and orphanage. We have a number of Armenian girls there. They all smiled at us so sweetly. We next drove around the city—passed the home of Venizelos which has been badly shattered by numbers of bullets fired into it. The Acropolis is ways looks good to me, but in the full moon it was especially thrilling. Three of our party of five relief workers left us here to go on to Armenia. We found it very hot and dusty, so waited until moonlight to get back to Pireus to take our ship."

SLIGHT BULGE ON WHEAT MART

Weak Opening Is Succeeded
By Some Recovery

Chicago, July 12.—With crop reports in hand indicating that no serious damage from black rust was probable, wheat today averaged a little lower in price during the early dealings. On the decline, however, good buying developed and gave support to values. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to one-half cent lower with September 90 1/2 to 99 1/2 and December 1.02 1/2 to 1.02 3/4, were followed by a slight general sag and then a recovery to above yesterday's finish. Rains in Kansas and Nebraska, helpful to the new crop, had a bearish effect on corn. After opening unchanged to one-half cent lower, September (c) showed a general downward trend.

Subsequently reports from South Dakota said heavy loss from black rust was certain around Aberdeen and it was predicted that South Dakota would produce 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 bushels less wheat than the July official estimates. Price rallies that resulted, however, lacked force. The close was unsettled, 1/2 to 3/4 cents net lower with September 99 1/2 to 99 3/4 cents and December 1.02 1/2 to 1.02 3/4.

CZARIST MONEY SCRAMBLE DUPES RUSSIAN REFUGEES

Prague, July 12.—Russians in Prague and various other centers where the refugees from the Bolshevik regime are gathered in large numbers, have discovered that the Soviet government victimized them cleverly by loading them down with alleged czarist money, which really was printed by the Bolsheviks.

Russians outside of Russia, and many other persons not thoroughly informed of the currency, believed for a long time that the Russian money of the old regime was much more valuable than Bolshevik paper money, and would some day be redeemed. Consequently there was considerable demand in European money exchanges for the old-time Russian money, and it brought better prices than red rubles.

As the Bolshevik government had a large quantity of the water-marked paper used in the old money, and had the plates for bills of large denominations, it started its money presses and supplied the demand for czarist bills. They continued this practice until last January, when the water-marked paper supply was exhausted.

Kilbane, with $250,000

Cleveland, July 12.—After nearly a month's rest on his farm near Vermillion, Johnny Kilbane, world's featherweight boxing champion, met Eugene Ciriqli in New York, is ready to settle down to the life of a business man. His friends have estimated his financial assets at a quarter of a million dollars.

Johnny will become a business man without any regrets at having lost the title, although, as he says now, he felt regret when he staggered to his feet immediately following his knockout.

"No more fighting for me," Johnny has said. "I can't fight any more, anyway. The old pep was gone in the Ciriqli fight, my hands were bad, I had nothing. And to meet a little fighter of Ciriqli's type you needed everything."

"I have appreciated the way my friends rallied about me after I had been beaten. When I returned to Cleveland 11 years ago after beating Abe Attell for the championship, 100,000 people met me at the depot. A few hundred of my friends met me when I returned from the Ciriqli fight. They were downcast, but I want them to know that I am not blue; that I'm glad I'm no longer champion."

Johnny says his only interest in boxing in the future will be centered in Al Ziemer, his sparring partner for years, whom he wants to send after Ciriqli.

Queer Little Door Paris

Mother and Baby Forever

Rio De Janeiro, July 12.—One of the most curious institutions in this city is the "Casa dos Expostos," a founding asylum that receives its small inmates through a sort of revolving door which is so built in a wall that the person operating it from the outside cannot see inside the building nor be seen by persons within.

The purpose of this mysterious door is to enable unfortunate mothers to place their offspring in safe keeping without revealing their identity or whatever secrets may have been connected with their existence.

Most of the foundlings, the asylum officials say, are put within the revolving door at night when there is little or no traffic on the street outside. With the turning of the door a bell rings, which announces to the attendants that a new guest has arrived.

If a note giving the child's name or other information is pinned to its clothes, it is bapized with that name, but once a baby is placed within the door by the despairing mother, it is never returned, no matter what change in fortune may come to the mother or what claims she may advance to support her repentance.

The inmates of the "Casa dos Expostos" are raised like orphans and prepared for life with the best care within the ability of the gentle nuns who manage the institution. Many of the children are adopted by childless couples. Founded in 1738, the institution in the two centuries of its existence has furnished more than 45,000 citizens to this city some of whom achieved renown and high position—and their introduction to the world was a revolving door.

BISMARCK TOYS BRING JOY IN FAR-OFF SYRIA

Jackie Zuger Receives Letter
Voicing Appreciation of
Boys in the Near East

CONDITIONS DESCRIBED

Toys sent from Bismarck are gladdening hearts of homeless waifs in far-off Syria being given a few of the joys that are the right of childhood by American Relief Workers.

A picturesque story of the dire straits of people in the Near East is related by the Alma Kerr, Near East Relief worker, formerly of Bismarck, in a letter to Mrs. Alfred Zuger and son, Jackie, thanking them for gifts to the orphans.

"I used the letters and books in the kindergarten. I never knew what a lot of joy those things could bring the little ones. I gave one marble to each of the little ones in the hospital and they just beamed and kissed them," said Mrs. Kerr, writing from Beirut, Syria, where she is in charge of relief work.

Mrs. Kerr visited with friends in Bismarck early this spring and took with her a 25-pound box of toys and clothing packed by Mrs. Zuger for the orphans of the East. Mrs. Kerr had been in Syria for three years prior to her return to this country last year.

Little Boy Writes

Something of the appreciation felt by the little folks for the gifts sent from America is indicated in the following letter Victor Mickle, orphan in a hospital maintained by the American Near East Relief at Beirut, Syria, wrote Jackie.

"With thanks I send this letter to you telling you that I have received the suit which you have sent me by Mrs. Kerr. I am very glad to thank you for this gift and to send you my best wishes and I ask God to bless you and reward you for your good deed."

Tells of Conditions

The following delightful description of Algiers and Athens, the only two points at which Mrs. Kerr stopped on her way East, is contained in her letter to Mrs. Zuger.

"I love Algiers more than any other city I have been to in the east, but that possibly can be explained since it was the first eastern city I'd seen in a year. The city is most picturesque with its white houses and mosques, located on the shores of a very blue bay and dotted with palm trees and gardens through the city. When the French bombarded the city, they entered at night and would scarcely distinguish even the outline of the buildings on shore. They had been ordered to fire down but when the men awakened they were spellbound to find a snow white city, too beautiful to describe, some said. Since then it has been La Belle Ville Blanche, or snow white Algiers. A friend of ours, a French doctor took us around the city, by automobile. We drove out to the botanical garden and had to drive slowly so as not to go over some of the slow moving white clad Moslems, who always move along as though they have time to burn. The Moslems or Arabs here are much larger than any I have seen before—and so handsome!

The "Sheik" Falls

"It was a very good thing for each of us five relief workers that the ship stopped only one day in the harbor or I might have gone off on the Sahara with one. When we were going out at a party, four huge Arab came in, and seated themselves opposite us. They were wrapped in their snow white abbas and hood sort of affair that goes over their shoulders. One of them, an older man attracted my attention. We carried on quite a conversation—mute—however, and when we arose to go, he was careful to push back the folds of his abbas and I saw the red ribbon, Legion honor decoration which would have given me grounds for talking to him had we not been in such a hurry.

"We took a car after lunch and drove up to the old quarter on the top of the hills which is called Kasbah quarter. Kasbah is a Turkish word meaning amber and it may have been in ancient days a head market or factory. The cemetery is the most picturesque of all with the pine trees and the hundreds of crude headstones, the women and old men huddled over the graves, some chanting as their bodies swung to a peculiar rhythmic motion. They eyed us suspiciously as usual. We went through the leather markets, for which Algiers is very noted, got back on ship board at 4 o'clock and set sail. It was beautiful during the entire evening as we voyaged along the African coast and the sunset was almost a deep daring orange with glints of green.

Extremes in Greece

"Athens has two extremes—refugees from Anatolia, ragged, vermin laden and—scarcely able to stagger about—and fashionable, well clad Athenians in Parisian garments promenade between the sunset and dusk to the music of the many orchestras or bands about in the gardens. I do not like Athens—never did, but they say those who have lived there long enough do. It looks far more dowdy than in 1919. Most of the men use crutches and limp—the effects of war and suffering being evident.

"We drove first to the Royal Palace which is now our headquarters and orphanage. We have a number of Armenian girls there. They all smiled at us so sweetly. We next drove around the city—passed the home of Venizelos which has been badly shattered by numberless bullets fired into it. The Acropolis always looks good to me, but in the full moon it was especially thrilling. Three of our party of five relief workers left us here to go on to Armenia. We found it very hot and dusty, so waited until moonlight to get back to Pireus to take our ship."

SLIGHT BULGE ON WHEAT MART

Weak Opening Is Succeeded
By Some Recovery

Chicago, July 12.—With crop reports in hand indicating that no serious damage from black rust was probable, wheat today averaged a little lower in price during the early dealings. On the decline, however, good buying developed and gave support to values. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to one-half cent lower with September 99½ to 99½ and December 1.02½ to 1.02½ were followed by a slight general sag and then a recovery to above yesterday's finish. Rains in Kansas and Nebraska, helpful to the new crop, had a bearish effect on corn. After opening unchanged to one-half cent lower, September corn showed a general downward trend.

Subsequently reports from South Dakota said heavy loss from black rust was certain around Aberdeen and it was predicted that South Dakota would produce 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 bushels less wheat than the July official estimates. Price rallies that resulted, however, lacked force. The close was unsettled, 99½ to 99½ cents and December 1.02½ to 1.03½.

WOMEN OF TURKEY MAY SOON CAST OFF FETTERS

Constantinople, July 12.—Turkish women seem destined soon to enjoy the same freedom and privileges as women in the United States. Mustafa Kemal has promised them the vote and they are now beginning to shake off the fetters which have kept them to domestic bondage since time immemorial. A great women's political congress will be held here shortly, and a countrywide suffrage movement is inaugurated. Women possessing diplomas of higher or secondary education may appoint delegates.

One of the leaders of the new movement says the object of the Turkish women is to obtain the vote peacefully within two years. Meanwhile, the first step in this direction was won recently when the women elected a Turkish woman teacher on the council of primary education. Women voters appeared at the electoral assembly in greater numbers than the men, and this was interpreted as showing modern enlightened Turkish women's keenness in social matters.

Mrs. Mark Bristol, wife of Admiral Bristol, the American High Commissioner, is active in Turkish social and civic societies and has given the Moslem women leaders much useful counsel based upon the experience of American women in political and public life. Ninety per cent of Turkish women are illiterate. Their education extends little beyond the Koran (Turkish Bible) and a certain acquaintance with household and maternal duties. Their husbands regard them as merely convenient mediums to minister to their needs and pleasures.

ALABAMA MAY ABOLISH CONVICT LEASING SYSTEM

Montgomery, Ala., July 12.—One of the results of the recent investigation of alleged outrages in Florida prison camps will be to make the leasing of Alabama convicts one of the most complex matters to come before the Alabama legislature which convened July 11, for its summer session, according to the opinion expressed by members in advance of the meeting.

Inspired by investigations and their results in Florida, citizens of Alabama started an inquiry into conditions in this state and several groups now are demanding that the present lease system be abolished, despite the fact that the legislature at the coming session extended the leasing system until December, 1923. Governor Brandon has expressed himself in defense of the existing system, declaring the state should make no changes until some other employment might be arranged, enabling the state to continue them at work without loss.

RUM RUNNING BIG INDUSTRY

Flourishes Along South Atlantic Coast, Says Chicago Paper

Chicago, July 12.—Rum running along the Florida coast has developed into such a flourishing industry that some Florida auto dealers sell cars specially built to transport liquor, furnish a negro chauffeur and guarantee safe delivery anywhere. The Chicago Daily News declared today in the second of series of copyrighted articles describing rum running along the Atlantic seaboard. The writer who with a bootlegger named Terry investigated rum running along the Florida coast declared he had been approached by such an auto dealer who believed the newspaperman to be a bootlegger and described transportation methods, particularly the negro driver. "The secret is this," the article quoted the dealer as saying, "if you buy a car from me I will supply a negro chauffeur who will drive you through in style for $10 and his expenses. Most of the northern rum runners who try to take booze through from Florida make the mistake of driving the car themselves. They are a hard lot, they wear caps and sweaters, they don't shave, some chew tobacco, they talk with their 'R's' spread all through their conversation. A southern cop can spot them as far as he can see them. If you take one of my sedans and one of my chauffeurs and simply jolt back all dressed up in the back seat and let my chauffeur do your driving—for a positively guaranteed that you will get by."

Bank References Given
The dealer, the writer said, offered bank references and other proof of their reliability and integrity. Further in reference to automobile dealers selling special bootlegging cars, the writer quotes one dealer as promising to follow through on the deal by introducing the prospective rum runner to prominent northern business connections at the other end.

"I give you my word of honor, sir," the writer quotes the dealer, "I will write you an introduction to the sales manager of our cars on Michigan avenue, Chicago, who will take you to the president of the bank with which we do business, and they will assure you that we are gentlemen of integrity. If I send you out of Florida with a cargo of whisky in one of our cars every facility at our command will be at your service to assure your safe arrival."

Rotary Luncheon Enjoyed by 82 At McKenzie Hotel

Eighty-two Rotarians and their wives enjoyed a hilarious time at the Rotary luncheon given in honor of the ladies at the McKenzie hotel last evening. J. L. Bell was the speaker of the evening.

The jollity of the evening started on the stroke of 4:30 o'clock when those who were late contributed to the evening's entertainment and the coffers of the Rotary fund by being recipients of special vocal greetings. Taxes of twenty-five cents per head were levied, Judge A. M. Christianson, Bart Finney, Dr. E. P. Quinn, and J. L. Bell, and their guests being among the late arrivals who dropped quarters in the tin can circulated by "Bob" Webb.

"Hank" Halverson started the singing as soon as the guests passed through the doors of the McKenzie dining room. Harry Wagner presided at the piano. Balloons at the places of the diners invited the crowd to enjoy a carnival season. With little delay red, white, and blue spheres bearing the Rotary motto were floating about the dining room and noise very similar to those of carnival festivities echoed through the hall.

The first act of the president after welcoming his guests was to institute an investigation concerning the outcome of Fred Copelin's Ford day celebration which he stated had postponed the Ladies night program. After Mr. Copelin had assured his inquisitor that the day had been a complete success with so many cars present that no one had been able to count them, he finally estimated that five hundred words had appeared in the celebration. A tax of twenty-five cents per head was declared by Henry Duemeland. "Bob" Webb appeared with the tax and collected the money.

Before the speaker of the evening, J. L. Bell opened his address, Dr. V. J. Lakose and Frank W. Murphy gave reports on the Detroit and St. Paul rotary meetings which they had attended. Mr. Bell who had been the official delegate from the local Rotary club to the International Rotary convention at St. Louis, Mo., gave a splendid report of the meeting.

Punctuating his report with many humorous and interesting interpretations of events the speaker delighted the Rotarians and their guests with his report. He spoke of the inspiration derived from the hearing such personages as the former president of the Rotary, President Harding, and various other speakers of national and international fame.

He said that in speaking to Mr. Neighan later he found that Harry McLean, formerly of Bismarck, was taking a prominent place in the business life of Canada, and was well known to Mr. Neighan.

After announcing the committees for the next three months, "Lew" Craswell and Roy Bonham for July, George Bird and "Bob" Webb for August, and Fred Conklin and O. N. Dunham for September, Mr. Duemeland concluded the meeting because he said, "I know you all want to go to see the 'Spice of 1922'."

OF THE MOVIES

CAPITOL THEATRE

There are three featured players in Goldwyn's "Hungry Hearts," which is on at the Capitol tonight, Bryant Washburn, Helen Ferguson and Rose Rosanova. Washburn went into the "movies" at an early stage, with the old Essanay company; he has appeared with many other companies and made his own productions. Helen Ferguson was an "extra" with Essanay at the time Washburn was being given leading roles. Her acting career has been confined entirely to the screen. Her Sara in "Hungry Hearts" is the biggest opportunity she has had and she places herself near the top of young leading women by her acting of the role. Madame Rosanova is well known on both stage and screen for her interpretation of mother roles.

THE ELTINGE

Frank Keenan, Lloyd Hughes, Marguerite De La Motte and Edward Burns appear in the Thos. Ince special, "Scars of Jealousy" with the story laid in Alabama, as the attraction at the Eltinge, Friday and Saturday. Frank Keenan has a part in which he excels, as a fine old southerner whose adopted son brings about the regeneration of the wayward boy who had been disinherited. Among the thrills is the escape of Lloyd Hughes and Marguerite De La Motte from the forest fire by means of a timber flume, leaping into the river below.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

WHY FAIL?

Success is easier to attain than failure, wrote Ed Howe, the retired editor and country town philosopher at Potato Hill Farm near Atchison, Kansas. Right, in a sense, for the road to failure is harder on us than the road to success.

Ed Howe's philosophy is that success, after all, is not so difficult. Trouble is, most of us waste too much time seeking an impossible short-cut to it instead of following the old reliable road way—hard work, patience, perseverance and common honesty.

One of our national weaknesses is a near-mania for magical formulas. We'll never be satisfied until we are able to cure any disease with one pill, have a pocket-size radio without batteries, and make life an endless period of prosperity without the traditional spells of depression.

Still, that's the right attitude in the sense that it's the only way we'll ever attain the perfections we crave.

American mentality does not admit that anything is "impossible"—except where it applies personally to the individual. If we had half the confidence in our individual selves that we have in our herd or social group, it wouldn't be necessary to talk so much about how to succeed.

To the ambitious, it often seems that life is an unending series of failures. Success is the sum total of these failures. This angle of the discussion is furnished by President Lowell of Harvard.

He adds: "It has been asserted by military critics that a nation is never finally beaten in war until it believes itself beaten. With less accuracy, it may be said that so long as a man lives he has not failed unless he believes that he has failed."

The man who rushes ahead recklessly into the same stone wall has the kind of head least likely to be affected by the process. He shows perseverance, but not determination to succeed. Wisdom consists in changing the method as the result of experience.

In other words, try butting the head against other parts of the wall until we find a weak spot, instead of repeating at the same point of attack.

The careers of most great men prove that success comes only after a series of failures. Abraham Lincoln in his younger days tried to be a successful stockkeeper, at which venture he failed twice. Goodyear failed at thousands of experiments before he discovered how to make sticky rubber gum into a useful and usable commodity.

William James tried to succeed as an artist, then as a doctor, and wound up successfully as a psychologist and philosopher.

So it goes. When failure becomes chronic, it's often because we're attacking the wrong part of the wall—trying to succeed at the wrong vocation. For every person in the world there's some line of work at which he is certain to be highly successful. The job is, to find it. Instinct will guide us more accurately than reason.

AIR CASTLES

July, one of the two laziest months of the year, is a great time for air castles.

A farm boy lounges in the shade, on his back, gazes into the fleecy clouds, and day-dreams.

The whole fictional world—of romance, adventure and wealth—seems to him to be under his mastery. Power and pleasure are up there in the clouds. Imaginary, of course, but very real to the boy.

Getting down to cold hard facts, the most important angle of this day-dreaming situation is that, while the farm lad explores his castles in the air, his immediate job—weeding—waits.

In a sense, this is allegorical. It portrays something characteristic of all of us, something that haunts us through life and periodically semi-chloroforms us into stagnation.

The farm lad, day-dreaming, has himself hypnotized.

So have the rest of us, most of the time we day-dream. It is all quite fine, to vision glorious castles in the air. Such is a necessary part of ambition. And, no doubt, our air-castles inspire us to redoubled effort when we come out of our trance.

But many of us waste so much time day-dreaming that we have little time left for actual accomplishment. We can dream so much of a better job that we neglect the present or immediate job—and thereby delay our progress to the better job. While watching and envying the man above us on the next rung of the success ladder, let us not forget the newcomer on the rung below us who is after the job we hold now.

This is a hard, material world—severely jolting to the person who day-dreams to excess. There is such a thing as too much ambition—too many air castles.

TREE

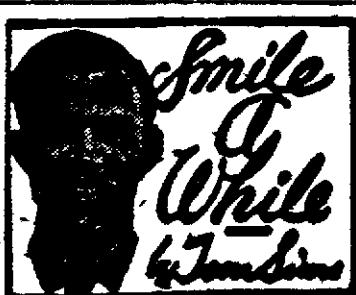

George Washington took command of the American army July 3, 1775, under a famous elm tree in Cambridge, Mass. The old tree is showing its age and a small army of tree doctors is trying to keep it alive.

The elm outlived Washington 124 years and probably still has a long time to go. It makes us wonder, why we can't live as long as some forms of plant life. Possibly we shall, in a few generations—if the experimenting doctors blunder in the right discoveries. That future people will live 500 years is not impossible.

DESCENDANTS

The old elm tree, under which Washington took command of the American army, may die. But Prof. Sargent is already growing trees taken as shoots from the old elm. These shoots are the old elm's children, and when it dies and is cut down, one of the children will take its place.

Fathers, comparing themselves with the old elm, can do a lot of philosophical thinking. Mothers, too. Parents are sure of one form of life after death, at least. They live on in their children.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

The Twins couldn't help smiling when Mister Sky Bow took them to the place where the Tootsies lived. For the Tootsies were folk with enormous feet, although the rest of them were quite small.

"How do you do?" said one of the Tootsies, holding out his hand to shake hands.

"I'm pretty well, thank you," answered Nick, "but I can't shake hands with you because I can't get near enough. Perhaps if you stand sideways I could."

"Oh, that's all right," said the Tootsy. "Step right on."

So Nick stepped up on one of the Tootsy's feet and shook hands. So did Nancy.

"It's too bad!" said Nancy. "It certainly is," said Nick. "What about?" demanded the Tootsies.

"About your feet?"

"That they're so large," said the Twins.

"Ho, ho, ho! That's a fine joke!" answered the Tootsy.

"Why, just think of it, when we go skating we can't fall, when we go walking we never get tired, we can't sprain our ankles for our feet never turn over, and our shoes are so big we sleep in them at night. Besides, when we go barefoot in the wet grass, think how good it feels."

"But what do you do when they get cold?" asked Nancy. "There's so much of them to school!"

All the more to stamp around with," answered the Tootsies. "And think what fun we have sliding."

"No matter what you say they will see the happy side," said Mister Sky Bow. "But come now. We must go to another place."

THE CALM BEFORE THE STORM

You can see, dear little Marquise, that I had started something. I did not really intend to bring you up to date on my life, but I consulted Jack, but having already brought it about, I was not going to back down.

Miss Bradford had already begun to put on her wraps.

I really felt sorry for Mrs. Prescott. All at once she seemed to have grown shrunken and old. She looked from Priscilla to me in consternation.

I knew that she did not want to break with me on account of John, but I knew she loved Priscilla. All at once I understood that here was a girl of the same temperament, the same mid-Victorian ideas, who had been very kind to her for years.

It was perfectly natural that she should have wanted her to marry her son. It was not queer at all that she resented me, a stranger.

Fortunately I remembered there was a train which, although it did not stop at our little town, stopped in the city where Karl was going, and this train would take me back to Albany by noon the next day.

The thing to do now, however, was to make Mrs. Prescott understand that I was not leaving her in anger. So I turned to Miss Bradford and said, "I really think it is better for you to stay with Mother Prescott."

It was the first time I had called her "mother." Although the word almost came to my lips inadvertently, because I felt a sudden pity for her loneliness, the lighting up of John's mother's face showed me I turned and went up to her and

"Good Lord!" I said to myself. "If that isn't dismissal from the queen, I do not know what it is."

All at once I was very proud of my mother-in-law. That she could really rise to the occasion and put herself in the right and me undeniably in the wrong so gracefully was something that I knew no modern woman could have done.

I turned and went up to her and laying my cheek against hers I said, "Dear mother, you always know and do the right thing."

"Wait a minute, Karl. I will be ready."

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Mark Brendon, criminal investigator, is engaged by Jenny Pendean to solve the murder of her husband, Michael. Jenny's uncle, Robert Redmayne, disappears and is suspected of killing Michael.

Jenny goes to live with her uncle, Bendigo Redmayne. Robert appears in the neighborhood and sends word to Bendigo to come to his hiding place. Giuseppe Doria, who works for Bendigo, takes his master to Robert and leaves the brothers together. When Doria calls to bring Bendigo home he finds an empty cave in which is evidence of a terrible struggle.

Jenny marries Doria and they go to live in Italy, where Jenny's uncle, Albert Redmayne, lives. When Robert is seen in Italy, Bendigo and the famous American detective, Peter Gans, renew investigation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
They had reached the shore a little above a rotting mass of brick and plaster. Beneath it extended a stone seat whereon the wayfarer might kneel or sit.

They sat down and Doria began to smoke his usual Fuses cigar. His depression increased and with it Brendon's astonishment. The man appeared to be taking exactly that attitude to his wife she had already suggested toward him.

"Il volto sciolto ed i pensieri stretti," declared Giuseppe with gloom. "That is to say that countenance may be clear, but her thoughts are dark—too dark to tell me her husband."

"Perhaps she fears you a little. A woman is always helpless before a man who keeps his own secrets hidden."

"Helpless? Far from it. She is a self-controlled, efficient, hard-headed woman. Her loveliness is a certain. You have not yet got behind that. You loved her, but she did not love you. And it is I who know her character, not you. She is very clever and pretends a great deal more than she feels. If she makes you think she is unhappy and helpless, she does it on purpose. She may be unhappy, because to keep secrets is often to court unhappiness."

"Her eyes look helpless," her mouth never. There is power and will between her teeth."

"Why do you speak of secrets?"

"Because you did. I have no secrets. It is Jenny, my wife, who has secrets. I tell you this. She knows all about the red man! She is as deep as hell."

Brendon could hardly believe his ears, but the Italian appeared very much in earnest. He chattered away for some time. Then he looked at his watch and declared that he must descend.

"The steamer is coming soon," he said. "Now I leave you and I hope that I leave you good. Think how to help me and yourself. If she now feels to you I cannot tell. You turn may come. I trust so. I am not at all jealous. But he warned. This red man—he is no friend to you or me. You seek him again today. So be it. And if you find him, be careful of your skin. Not that a man can protect his skin against fate. We meet at supper."

He swung away, singing a canzone, and quickly vanished, while Brendon, overwhelmed by this extraordinary conversation, sat for an hour motionless and deep in thought.

He considered now his own course of action and presently proceeded to the region in which Robert Redmayne had been most frequently reported.

Brendon climbed steadily upward and presently sat down to rest upon a little, lofty plateau where, in the mountain scrub, grew lilies of the valley and white sun-roses.

Suddenly Mark became aware that he was watched and found himself face to face with the object of his search. Robert Redmayne stood separated from him by a distance of thirty yards behind the boughs of a bushy, low-lying shrub.

But it appeared that the watcher desired no closer contact. He turned and ran, heading upward for a wild tract of stone and scrub that spread beneath the last precipices of the mountain. Mark strove to run the other down as speedily as possible, that he might close, with strength still sufficient to win the inevitable battle that must follow, and effect a capture.

He was disappointed, however, for while still twenty yards behind and forced to make only a moderate progress over the rocky way he saw Robert Redmayne suddenly stop, turn and lift a revolver. As the red man fired, the other flung up his arms, plunged forward on his face, gave one convulsive tremor through all his limbs, and moved no more.

The big man, panting from his exertions, approached only to see that his fallen victim showed no sign of life, the other, with his face amid the alpine flowers, remained where he had dropped, his arms outstretched, his hands clenched, his body still, blood running from his mouth.

The conqueror took careful note of the spot in which he stood and bringing a knife from his pocket blazed the stem of a young tree that rose not very far from his victim. Then he disappeared, and peace reigned above the fallen.

Many hours passed and then, after night had flooded the hollow, there sounded from close at hand strange noises and the intermittent thud of some metal weapon striking the earth. The din ascended from a rock which lifted its gray head above a thicket of Juniper; and here, while the flat summit of the boulder began to shine whitely under the rising moon, a lantern flickered and showed two shadows busy above the excavation of an oblong hole. They mumbled together and dug in turn. Then one dark figure came out into the open, took his bearings, swung a lantern light on the blood-stained trunk, and advanced to a brown, motionless hump lying hard by.

The dark, approaching figure saw the object of his search and came forward. His purpose was to bury the victim, whom he had lured hither before destroying, and then remove any trace that might linger upon the spot where the body lay. He bent down, put his hands to the jacket of the motionless man, and then, as he exerted his strength, a strange, hideous thing happened.

The body under his touch seemed to give a sudden lurch, as if its trunk became dismembered and he fell backward heaving an amorphous torso into the air. For, exerting the needful pressure to move a heavy weight, he found none and tumbled to the ground, holding up a coat stuffed with grass.

The man was on his feet in an instant, fearing an ambush; but astonishment opened his mouth.

"Corpo di Bacco!" he cried, and the exclamation rang in a note of something like terror against the cliffs and upon the ear of his companion.

moment. Their mingled steps instantly rang out; then the chatter faded swiftly upon the night and silence returned.

For ten minutes nothing happened. Next, out of a lair not fifteen yards from the distorted dummy, rose a figure that shone white as snow under the moon. Mark Brendon approached the snare that he himself had set, shook the grass out of his coat, lifted his hat from the ball of leaves it covered, and presently drew on his knickerbockers, having emptied them of their stuffing.

"He had learned more than he expected to learn," for that start! exclamation left no doubt at all concerning one of the grave-diggers. It was Giuseppe Doria, who had come to move the body, and there seemed little doubt that Brendon's would-be murderer was the other.

from the moment that he fell headlong, apparently to rise no more, may be briefly chronicled.

With a loaded revolver still in his opponent's hand, he could take no risk and fell accordingly. Brendon had simulated death for a while, but when satisfied of his assailant's departure, presently rose with no worse hurts than a bruised face, a badly bitten tongue, and a wounded shin.

Mark guessed that until darkness returned he might expect to be undisturbed. He walked back, therefore, to his starting-place, and found the packet of food which he had brought with him and a flask of red wine left beside it.

After a meal and a pipe he made his plan and presently stood again on the high ground beneath the cliffs, where he had pretended so realistically to perish. He expected Redmayne to return, and guessed that another would return with him. His hope was to recognize the accomplice.

With infinite satisfaction he heard Giuseppe's voice, and even an element of grim amusement attended the Italian's shock and his subsequent snipe-like antics as he leaped to safety before an anticipated revolver barrage.

CHAPTER XV
A Ghost.

The next morning, while he rubbed his bruises in a hot bath, Brendon determined upon a course of action. He proposed to tell Jenny and her husband exactly what had happened to him, merely concealing the end of the story.

He breakfasted, lighted his pipe and limped over to Villa Pianezzo. He was not in reality very lame, but he wanted the stiffness. Only Assunta agreed, though Brendon's eyes had marked Dora and Jenny together in the neighborhood of the silk-worm house as he entered the garden. He asked for Giuseppe and, having left Brendon in the sitting-room of the villa, Assunta departed. Almost immediately afterward Jenny greeted him with evident pleasure but reproved him.

"We waited an hour for supper," she said, "then Giuseppe would wait no longer. I was beginning to get frightened and I have been frightened all night. I am thankful to see you, for I feared something serious might have happened."

"Something serious did happen. I've got a strange story to tell. Is your husband within reach?"

"He must hear it, too, I think. He may be in some danger as well as others."

She expressed impatience and shook her head.

"Can't you believe me? But of course you can't. Why should you? Doria is dangerous! However, if you want him, you don't want me, Mark."

It was the first time that she had thus addressed him and his heart throbbed; but the temptation to confide in her lasted not a moment. (Continued in Our Next Issue)

Tarvermont or Joe Day probably will be in the box for Bismarck today. "Back" Taylor has been both with a bad shoulder, but hopes to get in shape quickly.

Wingfield is now manager of the Jamestown club.

All teams in the North Dakota league start on an even basis today. The teams that arrived in Bismarck were much strengthened, and they are out to knock the Magicians out of the leadership of the team in the second half of the season.

Wally Gilbert, with the Valley City-Bismarck team of the Dakota league last year, who was sold to the Minneapolis American Association club, was farmed out to St. Joe and recalled last week to help the Millers.

He is playing third base. The Minneapolis Journal says:

"American association pitchers are devoting particular effort to finding the batting weakness of Wally Gilbert, who recently joined Minneapolis from St. Joe. They probably won't. Gilbert has every appearance of a natural hitter. He looks the ball over carefully. Hits at no bad ones and meets all the good ones whether high or low, inside or outside, slow or fast. He has had at least one hit in each of the seven games in which he has played for Minneapolis and many of the hits have come when runs waited on the bases."

Umpire Labe Saffro, who had a tough time in Bismarck, went to Minneapolis during the interim of the split season. The Minneapolis Tribune says:

Saffro returned to Minneapolis today and said, "It's a tough job to please those small baseball town fans." Saffro has been umpiring games in the Dakota league since the opening of the season, his term ending with the finish of the first half of the season Sunday. He will return next week when the second half of the schedule opens.

Rube Schauer, the Garrison pitcher, has been recalled by the Minneapolis American Association club to aid the Miller's pitching staff.

JACQUES FOURNIER "ROLLING STONE"

Now Playing Fifth Engagement in Majors With Brooklyn

BY BILLY EVANS.
The story about the "rolling stone" gathering no moss "does not fit the career of Jacques Fournier, who has traveled over many of the sun-kissed spots of the Pacific coast shores, has been with three clubs in the American league, two in the National League and at present is enjoying another prosperous season.

Unless Fournier is kidding the natives a bit on the date of his birth, he was a professional ball player with Seattle in 1908. He says he was born at Ausable, Mich. September 28, 1892, and he was a catcher with Seattle in 1908. His major league debut was with the Boston Red Sox in 1912. Later he shifted to the Chicago White Sox and he was good enough to cover first base for Charles Comiskey until Chic Gandil came along.

Back to the Minors.
The purchase of Gandil caused another transfer in Fournier's career and he returned to the Pacific Coast League.

During the shortage of major league players during the war period, Fournier hoped to join the New York Yankees. His term there was brief and in 1919 he was back with Los Angeles.

When the St. Louis Cardinals were going through their reconstruction days at the hands of Branch Rickey, a first baseman was needed. Fournier was brought back into the big circuit.

A frisky youth, however, arrived later in Jim Bottomley and, with Fournier on his hands, Rickey arranged an exchange with the Brooklyn Superbas, giving Fournier for Myers.

Always Rated Good Hitter.
Fournier became a stubborn hold-out in this swap and did not relent until the early part of May. Before he joined the Dodgers they were eighth placers. While Fournier did not do all of the heavy work, nevertheless the Superbas did not start their climb until he appeared in the game and, although he did not get the benefit of the usual spring training trip, he has been batting around .350 all season.

If Fournier's career continues to run as it has he will wear out his welcome in Brooklyn in a couple of years and move on to steady another weak club. He says he is far from through and ought to be able to stick around in the big show for at least five years more.

While never a fielder of the George Sisler type, Fournier has always had the reputation of a root hitter. So in times of stress, when a club needed batting strength, it always turned to Fournier if he happened to be sojourning in the minors, proving the punch is really the big asset in baseball.

Matthews Stars On Gridiron As Well As Diamond

By NEA Service.
Philadelphia, July 12.—Wid Matthews, called the spark plug of the Athletics team, is a star football player as well as diamond athlete.

Matthews as a collegian starred at quarterback. He played the same drive in his work as field general on the gridiron as he does playing center field for the Athletics.

During the war Matthews served in the navy, and when not doing things aquatic, played a little football to amuse the rest of the "Gobs."

He made an enviable football record while serving in the navy, even if he personally didn't get any German submarines.

The rise of Matthews to stardom in the American League reads almost like fiction. In spring training Mack scarcely gave Matthews any consideration, yet he finally supplanted Tim Lincecum, the maker of 37 home runs last year.

Matthews is far from a great player, yet he has been a wonderful help to the Athletics. He has a very ordinary throwing arm, is weak on ground balls and has a way of catching a fly ball that gives a base runner who seeks to advance a running start. He is a good waterer, fine bunter, but only a fair hitter.

Energy and ambition rather than ability has made Matthews the most talked about recruit in either major league.

Billy Evans Says

A good pitching staff is most essential to a winning ball club. Proper use of such a pitching staff is just as necessary.

Picking the spot for a pitcher is a baseball manager's greatest worry. What pitcher should start and who should be sent in as relief in case the original selection falters? There's where the real work comes in.

I have always regarded Connie Mack as a past master in his selection of pitchers. The judgment of Mack has always seemed to me to be almost unerring. Invariably he dericks a pitcher who is weakening at the right spot. Usually his relief pitcher stems the tide.

In the handling of pitchers I am inclined to think Mack errs less than any other manager I have ever come into contact with during my major league experience. Yet it is possible for even the master mind to make a grievous mistake in this respect.

In a recent series at Philadelphia between the Athletics and the White Sox, I saw Manager Mack get the toughest break in this respect that I have ever seen come up on the ball field. Mack made what seemed to be the correct shift, yet fate played him decidedly false.

When a manager makes a shift in pitchers he gambles with fate. If the successor stops the hitting of the opposition, the manager receives huge gobs of credit. If the reliever is bombarded even harder than the twirler he succeeded, the fans insist a "bone" was pulled in making the change. Picking the spot for the pitcher is the bane of every manager.

At the start of the fifth inning the Athletics were leading 2 to 0. Slim Harris, doing the pitching, was invincible. Then the Sox got their bats into action. In a hurry three runs scurried over the plate. With the score 3 to 2 in favor of Chicago, two down and two on, Eddie Collins was up.

Collins is a left-handed hitter. Heimach, a left-handed pitcher, had been warming up as per instructions. When Collins stepped to the plate, Mack removed Harris, the right-hander, and substituted Heimach, the southpaw. It was a logical change as Collins much prefers a right-hander to a southpaw, although Eddie hits the porters pretty well, as he later demonstrated.

Heimach pitched two balls wide of the plate at which Collins did not offer. He was in the hole. The next pitch was a fast ball on the inside. Collins shifted his stance, timed the ball perfectly and drove it over the right-field wall for a home run, scoring two men ahead of him and virtually settling the game.

In the ninth inning of the ball game Pitcher Heimach injured his back in throwing a curve ball. It was necessary to send in a relief pitcher. Odeen was the choice of Mack. The third ball delivered a style delivery made to order for a home run.

It is the first time in over 20 years of umpiring I have seen two relief pitchers batted for home runs by the first man to face them.

Baseball Star Buys Monkey For Pet, Now All He Needs Is An Organ

Johnny Tobin, star outfielder of the St. Louis Browns, is nothing if not original. In baseball as a player or starts to slip, it is a common expression among the players to say that he is getting ready for the tin cup and the shoe laces. This means, of course, that said player is losing his batting eye and will shortly be forced to look to fandom for help. The entire thought is ironical, but still much used.

Tobin has something entirely new along those lines. Johnny lives on the outskirts of St. Louis where there is plenty of grass and many acres of ground. While in New York Johnny purchased a baby monkey. It is now the big attraction for all the youngsters in Tobin's neighborhood. When asked why the strange purchase Tobin replied:

"The fans are never going to tell me to get a tin cup and a bunch of shoe laces when I start to slip. I'm going to fool them. While things are breaking good I am going to train the 'monk' to do a lot of stunts, among them being an imitation of Nick Atrock. That ought to go great. Nick imitates a monkey so there is no reason why a 'monk' shouldn't have the right to imitate Nick. Having completed the training of the monkey I am going to purchase a hand-organ which will play all the latest music including, 'Yes, We Have No Bananas.'"

"With a trained monkey and a pleasing hand-organ I ought to find the going much easier after my playing days are over, rather than depending on the sale of shoe laces and the 'dropping of an occasional tin cup.'"

Perhaps Johnny doesn't mean any of the things he says, but he is all serious as he relates his intentions to inquiring players. Anyway, Johnny has the monkey even if he never gets the organ.

EXPECT 70,000 CROWD AT BIG JERSEY BATTLE

Jess Willard and Luis Firpo to Seek Right to Meet Dempsey in Bout

ACID TEST FOR BOTH

Result of the Willard-Firpo fight will be posted at The Tribune office tonight. It should be received before 9 p. m., allowing for preliminaries and the big fight.

Jersey City, N. J., July 12.—Two modern gladiators, one from the prairies of Kansas, and the other from the farm stretches of the Argentine, will face their pugilistic futures tonight in a 12-round match in the picturesque setting in the arena at Boyle's Thirty Acres.

For Jess Willard, the man mountain who held the championship of the world from 1915 to 1919, it will be the acid test in the comeback by which he hopes to obtain a return match with his conqueror, Jack Dempsey.

For Firpo it will be the critical point in one of the most sensational careers in the sport, a stepping stone if he is victorious to a chance at Dempsey's crown.

A colorful crowd of probably more than 70,000 fans, including notables of society, business, private life and pugilism, men from all parts of the western hemisphere was expected to be at the contest.

Advance ticket sales had passed the 25,000 mark last night and indications were that this figure would be more than doubled by the time the fight program begins at 8:15 o'clock, daylight time.

Both fighters were declared to be fit for the greatest effort of their unusual careers and experts who weighed pro and con the rugged youth and aggressiveness of Firpo against the generalship and power of Willard rard the outcome a toss-up.

RED MENACE APPEARS IN NATIONALS

Pat Moran's Club Steps in Second Place, 5 Games Behind New York

PITTSBURGH FALLS

Chicago, July 12.—The Red menace has appeared to challenge the right of the world's champions to the National League leadership, for Pat Moran and his boys from Cincinnati today are in second place as the result of their double victory over Philadelphia yesterday by scores of 6 to 2 and 9 to 6, but the task of the Reds is a little harder than that of Pittsburgh as the teams stood Monday.

The Giants' lead in games then was the same—half; today it is five. They triumphed over Pittsburgh, 6 to 1, yesterday.

Grover Alexander and the Chicago Cubs shut out Brooklyn, 2 to 0. St. Louis again beat Boston, 10 to 4, making it three in a row.

The future of the American League over the Athletics leading from the Yankees, who with a lead of 12 games, are too far out in front for interest. The Hugen won another close game from the White Sox yesterday and Cleveland strengthened its hold on second place, getting another verdict over the Athletics.

The Indians now have a lead of one game over Connie Mack's team by three games. On real Mack in the Ban Johnson circuit is for third place, with four teams bunched for the position. The Detroit Tigers, by taking both ends of a double-header, 7 to 3 and 5 to 1, from the Boston Red Sox, tied the Athletics for third place.

Sox are only one and one-half games behind the St. Louis Browns, in spite of the absence of Sisler during the beginning of the season, are trailing the White Sox by only six points.

Finish of Two Recent Championship Bouts Was in Decided Contrast

By NEA Service.
New York, July 12.—The passing of the championship title from Jimmy Wilde and Johnny Kilbane was in decided contrast to the title holders lost via the knockout route, but the finish was decidedly different.

Kilbane, in losing to Criqui, passed out of the flat picture without suffering any undue punishment. His end came in a most business-like manner. Starting the bout with much confidence he early lost his carefree manner. He must have quickly realized that Criqui was too strong for him. The punch that knocked him out was a stinging blow, but Kilbane took the count when it seemed that he would surely be on his feet before the fatal ten.

Perhaps he realized that it would be useless and took the easiest way out. Wilde, on the other hand, was badly punished. It was a shame that the referee and his seconds permitted him to be so roughly handled. Wilde was too game to stay down when he saw that he hadn't the slightest chance against the fighting Filipino. He finally was knocked unconscious. It was 10 minutes before he was revived. It was a spectacle that in no way helped the boxing game. Wilde, when asked to concede defeat, replied:

"I am a champion. I must go down fighting like a champion."

The finish of the Wilde-Villa bout was a most dramatic one. Wilde went down like a champion, knocked out, while the huge crowd begged the referee to save him that humiliation, when it was apparent that he had no other chance.

JAMESTOWN IS OPPONENT HERE IN FIRST GAME

New Season in the North Dakota State League Opens This Afternoon

LADIES DAY FRIDAY

The second half of the North Dakota State Baseball League opens today. Jamestown is Bismarck's opponent, playing on the local lot at 8:15 today, tomorrow and Saturday, and at 8:30 on Sunday.

Friday, it is announced by the management is Ladies Day, when all ladies will be admitted without charge to the game.

The Jamestown club is now about settled for the season, and on the last trip here showed fine baseball. Don Dugan, Bismarck catcher, who was called by the St. Paul American Association team in the emergency resulting from suspension of players.

Truckee or Joe Day probably will be in the box for Bismarck today. "Buck" Taylor has been bothered with a bad shoulder, but hopes to get in shape quickly.

Wingfield is now manager of the Jamestown club.

All teams in the North Dakota league start on an even basis today. The teams that arrived in Bismarck were much strengthened, and they are out to knock the Magicians out of the leadership of the team in the second half of the season.

Wally Gilbert, with the Valley City-Bismarck team of the Dakota league last year, who was sold to the Minneapolis American Association club, was farmed out to St. Joe and recalled last week to help the Millers.

He is playing third base. The Minneapolis Journal says:

"American association pitchers are devoting particular effort to finding the batting weakness of Wally Gilbert, who recently joined Minneapolis from St. Joe. They probably won't. Gilbert has every appearance of a natural hitter. He looks the ball over carefully. Hits at no bad ones and meets all the good ones whether high or low, inside or outside, slow or fast. He has had at least one hit in each of the seven games in which he has played for Minneapolis and many of the hits have come when runs waited on the bases."

Empire Labe Saffro, who had a tough time in Bismarck, went to Minneapolis during the interim of the split season. The Minneapolis Tribune says:

"Labe" Saffro returned to Minneapolis and said, "It's a tough job to please those small baseball town fans." Saffro has been umpiring games in the Dakota league since the opening of the season, his term ending with the finish of the first half of the season Sunday. He will return next week when the second half of the schedule opens.

Rube Schauer, the Garrison pitcher, has been recalled by the Minneapolis American Association club to aid the Miller's pitching staff.

JACQUES FOURNIER "ROLLING STONE"

Now Playing Fifth Engagement in Majors With Brooklyn

BY BILLY EVANS.

The story about the "rolling stone" gathering no moss" does not fit the career of Jacques Fournier, who has traveled over many of the sun-kissed spots of the Pacific coast shores, has been with three clubs in the American league, two in the National League and at present is enjoying another prosperous season.

Unless Fournier is kidding the natives a bit on the date of his birth, he was a professional ball player with Seattle at the age of 16. He says he was born at Asubille, Mich., September 28, 1892, and he was a catcher with Seattle in 1908.

His major league debut was with the Boston Red Sox in 1912. Later he shifted to the Chicago White Sox and he was good enough to cover first base for Charles Comiskey until Chic Gandil came along.

Back to the Minors.

The purchase of Gandil caused another change of Fournier's career and he returned to the Pacific Coast League.

During the shortage of major league players during the war period, Fournier hopped back into the American League, joining the New York Yankees. His term there was brief and in 1919 he was back with the Los Angeles.

When the St. Louis Cardinals were going through their reconstruction days at the hands of Branch Rickey the successor stops the hitting of the opposition, the manager receives huge jobs of credit. If the relief pitcher is bombarded even harder than the twirler he succeeded, the fans insist a "bone" was pulled in making the change. Picking the spot for the pitcher is the bane of every manager.

Matthews Stars On Gridiron As Well As Diamond

By NEA Service.

Philadelphia, July 12.—Wig Matthews, called the spark plug of the Athletics team, is a star football player as well as diamond batsman.

Matthews was a collegian starred at quarterback. He put the same drive in his work as field general on the gridiron as he does playing center field for the Athletics.

During the war Matthews served in the navy, and when not doing things aquatic, played a little football to amuse the rest of the "Gobs."

He made an enviable football record while serving in the navy, even if he personally didn't get any German submarines.

The rise of Matthews to stardom in the American League reads almost like fiction. In spring training Mack scarcely gave Matthews any consideration, yet he finally supplanted Tillie Walker, the maker of 37 home runs last year.

Matthews is far from a great player, yet he has been a wonderful help to the Athletics. He has a very ordinary throwing arm, is weak on ground balls and has a way of catching a fly ball that give a base runner who seeks to advance a running start. He is a good waiter, fine hunter, but only a fair hitter.

Barry and Matson rather than ability has made Matthews the most talked about recruit in either major league.

Picking the spot for a pitcher is a baseball manager's greatest worry. What pitcher should start and who should be sent in as relief in case the original selection falters? There's where the real woe comes in.

Billy Evans Says

A good pitching staff is most essential to a winning ball club. Proper use of such a pitching staff is just as necessary.

In the handling of pitchers I am inclined to think Mack errs less than any other manager I have ever come into contact with during my major league experience. Yet it is possible for even the master mind to make a grievous mistake in this respect.

In a recent series at Philadelphia between the Athletics and the White Sox, I saw Manager Mack get the toughest break in this respect that I have ever seen come up on the ball field. Mack made what seemed to be the correct shift, yet fate played him decidedly false.

When a manager makes a shift in pitchers he gambles with fate. If

EXPECT 70,000 CROWD AT BIG JERSEY BATTLE

Jess Willard and Luis Firpo to Seek Right to Meet Dempsey in Bout

ACID TEST FOR BOTH

Result of the Willard-Firpo fight will be posted at The Tribune office tonight. It should be received before 9 p. m., allowing for preliminaries and the big fight.

Jersey City, N. J., July 12.—Two modern gladiators, one from the prairies of Kansas, and the other from the farm stretches of the Argentine, will face their pugilistic futures tonight in a 15-round match in the picturesque setting in the arena at Boyle's Thirty Acres.

For Jess Willard, the man mountain who held the championship of the world from 1915 to 1919, it will be the acid test in the comeback by which he hopes to obtain a return match with his conqueror, Jack Dempsey.

For Firpo it will be the critical point in one of the most sensational careers of ring history, a stepping stone if he is victorious to a chance at Dempsey's crown.

A colorful crowd of probably more than 70,000 fans, including thousands of society, business, private life and pugilism, men from all parts of the western hemisphere was expected to be at the combat.

Advance ticket sales had passed the 50,000 mark last night and indications were that this figure would be more than doubled by the time the fight program begins at 8:20 o'clock, daylight time.

Both fighters were declared to be fit for the greatest effort of their unusual careers and experts who weighed in and saw the rugged youth and aggressiveness of Firpo against the generalship and power of Willard read the outcome as a toss-up.

RED MENACE APPEARS IN NATIONALS

Pat Moran's Club Steps in Second Place, 5 Games Behind New York

PITTSBURGH FALLS

Chicago, July 12.—The Red menace has appeared to challenge the right of the world's champions to the National League leadership. For Pat Moran and his boys from Cincinnati today are in second place as the result of their double victory over Philadelphia yesterday by scores of 6 to 2 and 9 to 6, but the task of the Reds is a little harder than was that of Pittsburgh as the teams stood Monday. The Giants' lead in games then was three and one-half; today it is five. They triumphed over Pittsburgh, 6 to 1, yesterday.

Grover Alexander and the Chicago Cubs shut out Brooklyn, 2 to 0. St. Louis' main host, Boston, 10 to 4, making it three in a row.

The future of the American League does not concern the league leading Yankees, who with a lead of 12 games are too far out in front for interest. The Huggins man another close game from the White Sox yesterday and Cleveland strengthened its hold on second place, getting another verdict over the Athletics.

The Indians now have a lead of three games over Cleveland. Mack's team by three games. The real race in the American circuit is for third place, with four teams bunched for the position. The Detroit Tigers, by taking both ends of a double-header, 7 to 3 and 5 to 1, from the Boston Red Sox, tied the Athletics for third place. The White Sox are only one and one-half games behind and the St. Louis Browns, in spite of the absence of Sisler during the beginning of the season, are trailing the White Sox by only six points.

Finish of Two Recent Championship Bouts Was in Decided Contrast

By NEA Service.

New York, July 12.—The passing of the championship bout from Jimmy Wilde and Johnny Kilbane to Jess Willard and Luis Firpo, was a decided contrast. Both title holders lost via the knockout route, but the finish was decidedly different.

Kilbane, in losing to Criqui, passed out of the fight picture without suffering any undue punishment. His end came in a most business-like manner. Starting the bout with perfect confidence, he early lost his self-reliance. He must have quickly realized that Criqui was too strong for him. The punch that knocked him out was a stinging blow, but Kilbane took the count when it seemed that he would surely be on his feet before the fatal ten. Perhaps he realized that it would be useless and took the easiest way out. Wilde, on the other hand, was badly punished. It was a shame that the referee and his seconds permitted him to be so roughly handled. Wilde was too game to stay down when he saw that he hadn't the slightest chance against the fighting Filipino. He finally was knocked unconscious. It was 10 minutes before he was revived. It was a spectacle that in a way, helped the boxing game. Wilde, when asked to concede defeat, replied:

"I am a champion. I must go down fighting like a champion."

The finish of the Wilde-Villa bout was a most dramatic one. Wilde went down like a champion, knocked out, while the huge crowd begged the referee to save him that humiliation, when it was apparent that he had no other chance.
